*Dear Mr. Johnson,
You have dedicated so much energy to teaching us how to work. You have treated us like adults and challenged us to put 105% into our work. You have promoted thinking and writing with personal belief. For "behooving" us to go on learning we thank you forever.

I believe that we cannot teach teenagers if we do not understand them. A psychologist I respect told me that the greatest problem teens face is that adults cannot see the world through their eyes. As teachers we must constantly strive to view the world as they do.

Dear Academy Class of 1995:

Congratulations and welcome to the MSJ Alumni.

On this, your graduation, we are proud to send you forth to commence life after Mt. St. Joseph Academy. We have sought to share with you the Good News of God's great love for you, that He loves you without condition and that He will always be there for you. Keep this knowledge and experience of the love of Jesus and of us for you with you always.

Thank you for sharing these past four years with us. You have helped to make us better. You have challenged us to constant growth. What a great gift to us and to those yet to come.

As you go forth today into our world you will find "fragile peace and broken promises". I urge you to cultivate peace, be true to all that you hold dear and give of yourself and your resources to those who have less. Take the habit of service to others and let it grow. Bring compassion to each encounter in life. Dare to care whatever the cost.

Remember your roots here at the Academy. Throughout your life and through your contributions enable us to keep the Mt. St. Joseph Academy experience alive for the students of the greater Rutland region.

May God continue to bless each of you.

Sincerely,

Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein orders his troops to the border of oil-rich Kuwait. The U.S. sends 350 warplanes to the area to support the Kuwaiti forces. By October 11, Hussein orders the withdrawal of most of his forces.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin calls out his poorly trained military to subdue a rebellion in Chechnya, a southern republic the size of Connecticut. Critics accuse Yeltsin of resorting to totalitarian methods of the old communist Soviet regime to keep the shaky Russian Federation unified.

Europe's worst flood in this century kills at least 30 people across Europe. Inland floods caused by melting Alpine snow and relentless rains hit Belgium, France, Germany, and the Netherlands, whose famous dike system begins to crumble late in January 1995 in the face of rampaging rivers. Dutch authorities evacuate 250,000 people from the lowlands.

Camilla Parker Bowles, allegedly Prince Charles' mistress, announces her divorce from her husband, Andrew Parker Bowles. Princess Diana is said to be negotiating a divorce from Charles, who will be free to remarry without giving up the throne—unless unhappy subjects force a referendum on the monarchy.

More than 900 passengers die, 140 are rescued when the Estonia, a 15,500-ton Baltic ferry sinks off the coast of Finland in a violent nighttime storm. The storm's 30-foot waves swamp the ship which lists and sinks in a matter of minutes.

After a peasant uprising in Chiapas and two major political murders, Mexico gets a new president. Ernesto Zedillo, an economist, assumes office only to face a stockmarket crash, a ruined economy, and a loss of international confidence in the wake of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

On July 25, U.S. President Bill Clinton welcomes King Hussein of Jordan, right, and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to the White House, where the two sign a historic nonaggression pact that ends a 46-year state of belligerency between Israel and Jordan.

Conservative religious groups and those who believe in individual rights clash over issues of education for women and family planning at the U.N. International Conference on Population and Development in Cairo, Egypt, September 5.

Joyful residents of Belfast celebrate after the Irish Republican Army (IRA) announces an end to its military operations in Northern Ireland as of August 31. After 25 years of British military presence and over 3,000 killings, the IRA says it will now seek Irish union only through political channels.

Tipper Gore, wife of U.S. Vice President Al Gore, visits Rwandan refugee camps in Zaire in July. Thousands of refugees, fleeing ethnic conflict in Rwanda, die of cholera, dysentery, and other infectious diseases. Fresh water supplied by the United States military greatly reduces the number of cholera deaths.

Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasir Arafat returns to Palestine in July 1994 after 27 years of exile in Tunisia. Arafat kisses the ground in the Gaza Strip, now a Palestinian autonomous zone under the terms of a 1993 peace accord with Israel.

Millions of South Africans travel weary hours and wait in mile-long lines to vote in the first all-race elections. After more than a century of white rule, the voters choose former political prisoner Nelson Mandela to preside over the dismantling of apartheid.

Jimmy Carter, former U.S. president and self-styled global troubleshooter for peace, negotiates on behalf of the U.S. in Haiti, Bosnia, and North Korea. He even offers to help settle the baseball strike.

In Japan, an earthquake with a magnitude of 7.2 collapses buildings, derails trains, buckles elevated expressways, and causes fires throughout the city of Kobe. Over 5,000 people are killed and 26,000 injured. The Japan quake occurs January 17, 1995, one year to the day after a quake devastated Los Angeles.

U.S. President Bill Clinton, right, and British Prime Minister John Major take part in ceremonies in June 1994 at a military cemetery during the 50th anniversary commemoration of the Allied D-Day invasion of Europe, the event that sealed the fate of Nazi Germany during World War II.

India suffers an outbreak of pneumonic plague, carried by flea-infested vermin. Workers in Bombay earn five rupees for each exterminated rat; one thousand rat-tails earns a color TV.

Chinese school children, dressed to look like Colonel Sanders, welcome the president of Kentucky Fried Chicken to Shanghai in May 1994. Few of the country's many foreign business ventures thrive, but KFC becomes a Chinese favorite. The finger-lickin' enterprise makes plans to expand its outlets from 28 to 200.

Triumphant Jean-Bertrand Aristide reclaims his position as president and restores democracy to Haiti with the help of U.S. troops. Haiti had suffered under the rule of a military junta led by General Raoul Cedras, who goes into exile after reaching an agreement with U.S. mediators.

In one of the most successful antiterrorist operations in aviation history, French commandos storm an Air France jet-liner and kill four Algerian hijackers, freeing the plane's 173 passengers and crew.

Thousands of Cubans flee their economically depressed homeland, hoping for a better life in America. Many set off on homemade rafts and other small vessels only to be intercepted by the U.S. Coast Guard. The United States and Cuba reach an agreement in September that allows 20,000 Cuban immigrants to enter the United States each year.

In the wake of the 1994 Los Angeles earthquake and the southern California wildfires of 1993, California experiences more natural disasters in January 1995 when rainstorms cause flooding that kills 11 people and leaves 3,000 others homeless. Flooding is so high in Santa Barbara, fun-seeking teenagers dive off a freeway overpass into 15 feet of water. President Clinton declares 34 counties federal disaster areas.

In 1994, the U.S. registers a one-year population growth of 2.7 million. One-third of the increase is due to immigration, the largest such influx since 1914.

Author and humanities professor, Ralph Ellison, dies at age 80. His 1952 novel, Invisible Man, has been called the most powerful novel written about alienation, identity, and racism in America.

A huge increase in killings by 14- to 24-year-olds raises the nation's homicide rate, while violence blamed on preteens rocks communities nationwide. A boy, 13, is sentenced to life for strangling a four-year-old. In Chicago, an 11-year-old boy kills a 14-year-old girl and is then executed by his own gang. In Washington state a pair of 12-year-olds shoot a migrant worker.

The death of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in May 1994 marks the end of an era, a time when America was prosperous, fighting for civil rights, and heading for the moon. The former first lady is buried next to her husband, President John F. Kennedy, in Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D.C.

Called the Republican revolution, November mid-term elections put the Republican party and its anti-big government platform in control of Congress for the first time in 40 years. Georgia's Newt Gingrich, author of the GOP's "Contract with America," is the new Speaker of the House.

Heat, drought, and lightning combine to set Western states ablaze in late June and July. Fires consume 2,000 acres in Colorado's South Canyon when 50 mile-an-hour winds whip the flames into a firestorm, killing 14 specially trained firefighters; 10 men and four women.

The volunteers for Silent March bring shoes from every state for one of the quietest demonstrations to ever take place in Washington, D.C. Each empty pair of shoes represents one of the more than 40,000 Americans who have been killed by handguns.

The prosecution seeks the death penalty in the case of Susan Smith, who dupes the nation with a frightening tale of the abduction of her two little boys. The community's early support grows quickly to hatred when Smith confesses to murder—she sent her children to their deaths at the bottom of a lake.

Despite powerful National Rifle Association lobby efforts, Congress passes a crime bill banning the sale of 19 types of assault weapons. The Brady Law goes into effect; in one month 23,610 people with criminal records are denied the purchase of a handgun.

The 37th U.S. President, Richard Nixon, dies in April 1994. Nixon was responsible for restoring normal ties with the People's Republic of China following the signing of the Shanghai Communiqué in 1972.

A rare white buffalo named Miracle draws crowds to the humble Wisconsin farm where it was born August 20. Native Americans believe the calf is the fulfillment of a Lakota Sioux prophecy. Five hundred years ago, White Buffalo Woman told her people that she would return as a white calf to usher in a new age of harmony between all races of mankind.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration blasts the tobacco company executives at a congressional hearing in March 1994 for denying that nicotine, a drug found in cigarette smoke, is addictive. Tobacco industry workers fear losing their jobs if the FDA succeeds in classifying and restricting cigarettes as a drug.

The Flint River overflows, washing coffins out of a Georgia cemetery after torrential rains from tropical storm Alberto flood Georgia and the Florida-Alabama panhandle. Thirty-two people die, 40,000 are temporarily homeless, and 10,000 square miles are underwater, causing $100 million in crop damage.

Former football star O.J. Simpson is charged with the June 12th stabbing death of his ex-wife Nicole and her friend Ronald Goldman, causing a non-stop media avalanche. The sensational case familiarized watchers with spouse abuse, a televised ride in a white Ford Bronco, "Kato" Kaelin, and DNA testing. Simpson faces the jury in January.

President Clinton, with Republican leader Bob Dole, signs legislation implementing the U.S. role in an expanded General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), one of the most sweeping trade liberalization pacts in history. The legislation makes the U.S. a member of a new 125-member World Trade Organization. Protectionists worry that GATT may promote world trade but won't sufficiently protect American jobs.

The Secret Service considers restricting public access to the White House after a gunman fires 27 rounds at the building's facade in October. In September, a small Cessna airplane crashes on the South Lawn and comes to rest at the base of the White House below President Clinton's bedroom, killing the pilot.

The U.S. Interior Department moves the bald eagle from its endangered species list to the less critical "threatened" category. The Pacific Northwest's spotted owl is left to fend for itself when in June a federal judge lifts the 1991 injunction that halted logging in the owl's habitat.

The fossil of a previously unknown dinosaur, the 25-foot-long Cryolophosaurus ellioti, is found in Antarctica.

Despite a so-called fitness craze, the National Center for Health Statistics confirms the American overabundance of food combined with a sedentary lifestyle is creating an epidemic of obesity. Since 1980, the number of overweight adults has ballooned to one-third of the population, with an alarming increase among children.

Some of the 599 newly revealed secret ingredients major cigarette-makers add to improve taste and texture: beeswax, butter, carrot oil, citronella oil, cocoa shells, corn silk, dandelion root extract, 31 chemicals that start with ethyl, oak chip oil, vinegar, and dimethyltetrahydrobenzofuranone.

Three planets are discovered orbiting a pulsar star 3,000 light-years away in the constellation Virgo. One is the size of the moon and two are three times more massive than Earth; all are rocky worlds without an atmosphere.

The Food and Drug Administration institutes new food labeling on almost all foods in response to consumer protest against the many misleading claims of food producers. The new readable labels provide realistic serving sizes, list calories from fat, and allow you to compare different nutrient values.

Autostereograms, popularly known as Magic Eye, cause legions of people to stare cross-eyed for long periods of time. Based on a mystery of neurology and 3-D objects, pattern elements fuse into left-eye and right-eye images of a single hidden object which appears to be floating.

The century's greatest chemist and antinuclear activist, Linus C. Pauling, winner of the Nobel Prize for Chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize in 1962, dies at the age of 93. His work on DNA laid the foundation for Crick and Watson's discovery of the double helix.

A lively new cafe society centers around the 5,000 gourmet coffeeshops which spring up around the country. To the often young and trendy patrons, the social interaction is just as important as the espresso. Some cafes offer full-time Internet links so patrons can sip and chat with other Internet latte-drinkers.

Yoga, a Hindu system of stretching exercises for well-being, surges in popularity, mostly because the older generation seeks a technique for alleviating stress and finds yoga better than aerobics.

The designer pets of the year are African pigmy hedgehogs, and some 3,000 find homes with humans. They are gentle, like to be petted, and need a once-a-day feeding of pet food or mealworms. They don't smell and will even eat your roaches.

John Travolta and Samuel L. Jackson star in Pulp Fiction, an "extravagantly demented low-life lalaloosa with outlandish twists." The film's plot revolves around a watch, a briefcase, and a large syringe in a darkly humorous scene which reportedly causes a few audience members with needle-phobia to fall out of their seats in revulsion.

John Candy, the large and lovable star of films Splash, Cool Runnings, Home Alone, and many other family favorites, dies at the age of 43. Whether Candy played jerks, slobbers or loonies, his natural goodness came shining through.

“QUOTE

After three and a half months, I guess that I have good knowledge of what MSJ and America is about. Before I came here, I thought that America was a great country. I still think that America is nice, and have gotten my feet on the ground.

The first weeks at MSJ were hard for me. I didn't know many people and it occurred to me that few people were willing to get to know me. Students who I had some classes with looked through me like I was invisible. But in time, I got to know most of them, and I now go out with them.

I realized that it is very difficult to reach an acceptable position in the “hierarchy of being cool”, especially for an international student. In Germany, we have other values and definitions of being popular.

I can say that, at times, MSJ has made it difficult to feel comfortable.

I'd like to say “thank-you” to many people who have helped me to understand my different experiences: Mrs. Bagley, Mrs. Flanagan, Mr. Peterson, and the Abell family.

Malte Fidler-Germany

UNQUOTE”

MSJ is very different from my Japanese high school. I went to a Japanese high school for one year, so I know both schools.

I think Americans are free and the Japanese always do the same things, but the Japanese way is my lifestyle.

I think American high school students have young minds: I like that.

Some American students sometimes laugh at me because my English is not good. I don't like it when they laugh at me.

The teachers are kind and I love them, and I know that I will like MSJ.

Maki Sato-Japan

I have really enjoyed being an exchange student in America. It is a great opportunity for me to learn about America, its people and culture.

It is useful to see a different way of having a school day. It is helpful to see the different types of work that Americans perform.

I see myself as a spoiled kid. I have what I need, to live without my parents is a challenge. I believe this is helping me to change how I see my life.

When you are having a bad day there is nothing better than picking up your racket and taking out your frustrations on a ball. Tennis is an exciting sport. We travel all over Vermont and meet different people. The highlight has been the Division I State Champs! Way to go ladies!

-Melanie Notte

We owe our 3 time State Champion title to our constant dedication and our coach, Steve, who kept us together.

-Katie Hart

Men's Tennis

In tennis I have to depend on myself. I like being able to ace my opponent and hit cross court winners. Our coach, Clem, is great because he lets us play however WE want. Tennis also gives me a chance to release frustrations by drilling a ball for an hour.

-Erik Abell

I play tennis for the competition. To me, there is nothing better than feeling the competitiveness between two people. In hitting a ball back and forth just to win one point, each point counts because you need all the points you can get to win the match. I like tennis because it is more a mental game than it is a physical one. You have to think about how you are going to play and where you are going to place the ball in the court.

I play baseball because I love the competition and the game itself. As a pitcher, there is no better feeling than to be able to challenge a batter and put your best against his. It is exhilarating just to be on the field and to be part of the game. I strive for these pressure situations and that is why I enjoy playing the game of baseball.

-Sean Keenan

I play softball for the intensity. Playing in left field, a lot of pop-flies are hit to me. When there are two outs in the bottom of the seventh, you're up by one run, and a pop-fly is hit to you, the outcome of the game depends upon you catching the ball. All eyes are on you, and you're impatiently waiting for the ball. Then, you make an incredible catch out there, and the crowd goes wild!. The satisfaction that you receive is unbelievable! It's a major rush!

-Dori Ryan

I play softball because I love competition, and I like to challenge myself to do the best I can. If we don't win, we never get down: we always play as a team and support each other. As the saying goes, there is no "I" in team-and that's what we believe at MSJ.

Believe it or not, golf is a sport of skill. To put a ball 400 or so yards into a little hole, in four strokes is tough. I play because I enjoy the challenge.

The stage is our canvas. We paint with our emotions and depth of understanding. Anne Frank was an energetic, loving girl with normal fears and hopes. My cast and I brought Anne's experiences from her diary to life. We brought our audience real spirits who suffered, but also lived and loved. We emphasized the value of life- ALL people's lives. Hatred and prejudice only bring harm and death to spirit.

Theatre, to me, is a release, a dream, and a place where we can make a difference.

Linda Mayer

THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

"Don't use your conscious past. Use your creative imagination to create a past for your characters."

This is what Stella Adler said about acting, and I think that actors should take on a character. When I go into a role with no inhibitions I gain total freedom. Through this process I learn alot about my role, and a lot about myself.

— Andrew Costello

For me, acting has always seemed to come naturally, whatever the part is. I am usually able to achieve what the character wanted to accomplish, plus give it my own special touch. Being able to understand where a character is coming from is essential if the actor is to be successful. What makes the actor even more effective is the ability to incorporate his own personality.

Being a freshman is fun because we can say we're in high school, but we're still the youngest in the building. It's nice to have classes with the older students and to be on sports teams with them. Freshman year is different from the 8th grade because we're in a bigger building and have different classes. I think that the best part of freshman year are the friends you have, who help you through the first few weeks in this new environment that we call MSJ.

As freshman we have to climb the most stairs since our lockers are on the third floor. It is a whole new experience to have lockers, more people, new teachers, and exams. Sports help to keep the year interesting and we have a lot more to choose from at MSJ. Some of us have never worked in a lab before, so that was a new experience for us. We're the youngest in the building and look up to the upperclassmen, something that we didn't have to do in the 8th grade.

If I describe sophomore year in one word, that word is change. Freshman year everyone sticks together and helps each other out. Sophomore year we meet new students and we really start opening up and going out on weekends with different people.

As far as academics, sophomore year is a break between freshman and junior year. For me, it's not easy, but it's not the most difficult. This year means a lot and you need to work hard.

Varsity or JV? When you're a freshman it's most likely you'll be on JV, but sophomore year it can go either way in any sport. Whatever team you make, have fun, and work to the best of your ability: it will pay off.

My friends are important throughout my high school years, especially now. Everyone's meeting new people, but the "team" must stick together. I have had some good times and some bad. Either way, my friends are always there for me. We pull each other along, and stick together.

Sophomore year is the year of the driver's license! It means that my parents will begin to trust me in a whole new way. Finally, I can drive myself places sometimes.

Sophomore year will be one of many new experiences-treasure them!

As a sophomore I have found a greater acceptance here at MSJ as I built friendships and relationships. My personal goals this year include achieving academic excellence and to help my school in any way I can. There are many new things that a person experiences sophomore year: classes get harder, yet school becomes more enjoyable. I love my friends (and everyone else). Oh, and one more thing: chickenburgers, they rule!

Junior year is an opportunity to succeed on the SAT's, to have more playing time in a varsity sport and is the time to begin looking into prospective colleges. We are looked up to by the younger classes and can officially be called "upperclassmen". This is the year of independence, freedom and a lot of "buckling down" because we're no longer at the bottom of ladder, we're moving up closer and closer to graduation.

Junior year is unshakable anticipation. What is in store for us? Next year; senior year and graduation. We will undoubtedly write term papers, and study endlessly for SAT's. Colleges will begin sending out their catalogues to us, and we have the honor of deciding which ones we want to apply to. Good grades are a must this year because we have special colleges and certain places we want to go. Aside from those hair raising experiences that may face us, like working until 11:00 p.m. and then doing homework, this year will no doubt, be filled with many new experiences unequalled by the years behind us.

This is the year that we juniors get our first taste at what is fondly called "the prom". Ever since we were freshman we heard stories about it, maybe thumbed through a prom magazine, or even attended one. But, this year, we ourselves will put it on. That's the memorable portion of junior year because our prom will be filled with many memories that we will remember for the rest of our lives.

REDI-MIXED AND PRECAST CONCRETE

THE ART OF GETTING ALONG

Sooner or later, you discover that life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. You learn that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul- that you should let some things go over your head like water off a duck's back. You learn that one who loses ones temper usually loses out. You learn that all people have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that you shouldn't take the other person's grouch too seriously. You learn that carrying a chip on your shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight. You learn that the quickest way to become unpopular is to carry tales and gossip about others. You learn that buck-passing always turns out to be a boomerang, and that it never pays. You learn that it doesn't do any harm to smile and say "Good Morning" even if it is raining. You learn that others are as ambitious, that they have brains that are as good or better than yours, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success. You learn that no one ever got to first base alone, and that it is only through cooperative effort that we move onto better things. You learn that folks are not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that the "getting along" depends about ninety-eight percent on your own behavior.
